SINGAPORE ART MUSEUM

We are a museum with one of the world's largest collection of contemporary Southeast Asian artworks.

THE LEARNING GALLERY

Image courtesy of Singapore Art Museum.

The Learning Gallery is dedicated to the engagement and discussion of broader issues through contemporary artworks from the museum's permanent collection and special commissions.

The artworks from this exhibition are now sited in the Level 4, Theatrette Project Space at National Gallery Singapore, while the Singapore Art Museum building undergoes a retrofit.

These works navigate ideas of home, community, identity and memory. Scan here to explore The Learning Gallery's digital twin.

ARTIST HIGHLIGHT – JASON WEE

Self-Portrait (No More Tears, Mr. Lee), 2009
Jason Wee

Self-Portrait (No More Tears, Mr. Lee) is a large scale installation created with 8,000 plastic shampoo bottle caps created by Singaporean artist Jason Wee. He deconstructs an image into pixels and recreated the image into a portrait made using the shampoo bottle caps. The artist chose to create this portrait to remind Singaporeans of Mr Lee's contributions to Singapore.

LEARN ABOUT THE COMMUNITY

Using the artworks from The Learning Gallery as a starting point, explore various topics with your children!

LET'S DISCUSS

- What is a community?
- Why are these groups important to Singapore?
- What will happen if there are no communities in Singapore?
- How can communities contribute to Singapore?
- A kind word can brighten a person's day, what can you do to show your gratitude to some communities in Singapore e.g. frontline or essential workers, the elderly, helpers, teachers etc?

MAKE WITH SAM

'Make with SAM' is a series of videos by the Singapore Art Museum (SAM) where you can watch, learn and create!

The activities featured in the series are inspired by artworks from SAM's collection or exhibitions. Scan to view the videos.

PARTNER WITH SINGAPORE ART MUSEUM!

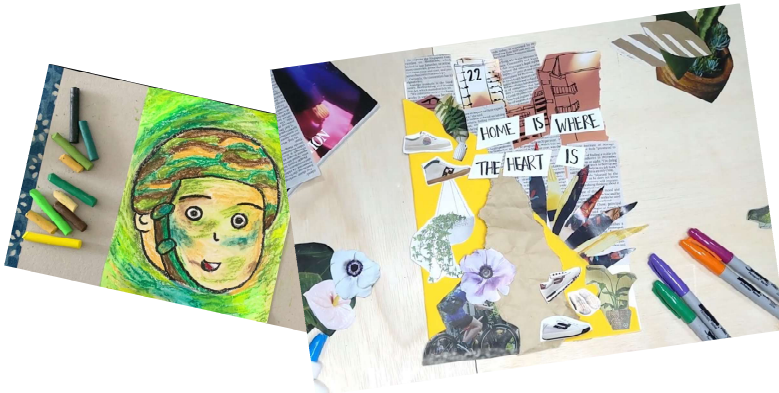

1. Learn about contemporary art!

2. Embark on a guided virtual gallery tour!

3. Create and stay connected!

The children may learn different art techniques through the 'Make with SAM' videos and use them to create cards and perhaps create an e-auction to raise funds for a community that is special to them.
